First Nations Initiatives... Partners in Resource Management

Together with Forsite the Sekw'el'was (Cayoose) and Tsal'alh (Seton) Bands of the St'at'imc are implementing a First Nations owned business called Shatlaqua (Sát'atqwa7) Resource Management (ShatlaquaRM). ShatlaquaRM will provide natural resource services and management to forestry, mining, fisheries, and power distribution clients in southwestern British Columbia.

At ShatlaquaRM our shared vision is to profitably grow our business while providing career opportunities for our staff. Success will be achieved by applying an entrepreneurial culture to diversified opportunities. This will require leadership, expertise and cultural cooperation while continuing the unique relationship that exists between First Nations and the land.

Our Mission at ShatlaquaRM is to be the best joint venture resource management company in British Columbia by rigorously partnering technical and business expertise with First Nations tradition, heritage, and pride.

ShatlaquaRM Guiding Principles:

- Explore new opportunities to encourage communities' long term ecological, social, cultural, and economic stability.
- Respect that the land is used by a variety of species and they all deserve equal opportunities to live and prosper on that land.
- Recognize, respect, and communicate with all First Nations where we operate and seek their inclusion and participation in our activities.
- Respect First Nations knowledge and support it with scientific knowledge.
